DID YOU KNOW?

Mack Sennett and his Bathing Beauties appeared on our Bailey stage on 28 July somwhere between 1917-1928. The Sennett Bathing Beauties were pin-up girls for the doughboys of the First World War. These beauties remained popular enough to provoke imitators like the Christie Studio's Bathing Beauties and Fox Film Corporation's "Sunshine Girls" and would continue to appear through 1928.

Mack Sennett's Bathing Beauties

Local Barbershop Quartet "Three Plus One" will be appearing at The Bailey Barbershop Bonanza on June 16th

'Bailey Barbershop Bonanza'
FACT SHEET

What is 'Barbershop Harmony'?
Barbershop Harmony is a style of unaccompanied (a capella) singing in which three voices harmonize to a melody all in close harmony. The lead (second tenor), usually sings the melody. The tenor harmonizes above the melody. The base sings the lowest harmonizing notes and the baritone provides the in between notes above or below the lead.

What musical instrument is characterized with barbershop singing?
The only musical instrument used by most barbershop groups is a pitch pipe used to provide a starting note for the selection to be sung.

What are the type of songs usually sang by barbershop groups?
Songs commonly associated with the barbershop style are those from the days of 'Tin Pan Alley' from about 1890 to 1920. However, today's barbershop harmony quartets or choruses often sing more recent material from light rock to gospel. Barbershoppers are always adding new songs to their repertoire, both their own compositions in the barbershop genre and arrangements of current pop hits that are suited to this style of singing.

Is barbershop singing for men only?
No, barbershop singing is performed both by men's and women's groups; the elements of the barbershop style and the names of the voice parts are the same for both groups.

Where did barbershop style singing originate?
In the last half of the 19th century, US barbershops served as community centres and a place where men would gather. African American men would form quartets and harmonize while waiting their turn. This generated a new singing style that was to become popular with many of the white crooners of the 20's and 30's.

What makes the production of this event a unique and valued experience for The Bailey Theatre?
The presentation by the 'Three Plus One Quartet' at the opening of the Bailey Theatre was very well received and appreciated by the audience. Secondly, the vaudeville history of the Bailey would include 'four part harmony' as a part of many past productions here, in that many of the show bills of this era would include such groups. Importantly, in the past Camrose had a very active barbershop chapter and chorus and it is felt by many that such an event may resurrect renewed interest in this community.

THE BAILEY BARBERSHOP BONANZA

Three Plus One is a local barbershop quartet made up of four local Camrose Pastors who sing a variety of familiar melodies in the traditional barbershop style. This occasion will mark their second appearance on the Bailey stage and is sure to bring repeat audience accolades. These generous individuals, in spite of their busy schedules, make the time to sing in the many care facilities in Camrose and at other community events. Typical of their endless efforts, a portion of the evening's proceeds will be donated to the Camrose Pastoral Care Association to further enhance the spiritual needs of the community.

The Wild Rose Harmonizers are a barbershop chorus consisting of 15 to 18 men from Central Alberta with singers young and old from Red Deer, Sylvan Lake, Pine Lake, Lacombe and the Rocky Mountain House areas.The group is a proud member of the world wide Barbershop Harmony Society dedicated to the promotion of singing a cappella 4 part harmony in the traditional barbershop style.

These years have been filled with a wide variety of activities that have taken them to many contests and shows in Western Canada and The Pacific Northwest as well as Utah, California, Ohio and Missouri. About a dozen members of this chorus will be included in our Bailey Barbershop Bonanza.

The featured guest MC for the evening will be Don Craig from Calgary's Evergreen District, Barbershop Harmony Society.
